Engagement

Patterns that Emerged	Student Quotes
Restorative Practices and community building across the system	"Teachers often seem really busy - students often find one teacher they can connect with, who is more warm & open, get support from, this helps mental health a lot - it would be good if more teachers were like this. More teachers should build community in their classroom." "More self care support and more (time) for self support - we (as students) tend to prioritize grades over mental health; this is amplified by peers and adults; but that comes at a cost to mental health which affects our ability to learn; additional support needed for - self care - this would improve our academic abilities and our mental health." "Stable mental health "boosts academic acceleration. It's like a motivation boost. If their mental health is deteriorating"... they need a safe learning environment."
Hiring, recruiting and retention of a more diverse workforce	"I have only had two teachers that look like me in my time in Alameda. I think that having role models and teachers that look like me are important to helping me feel more connected to school. "
Acceleration opportunities inside/outside of the regular school day for focus student groups, for example, elementary master schedule, summer opportunities, afterschool programs, enrichment opportunities	"Small groups with friends will be more supportive, both academic and emotional." "I would like more opportunities to have access to teachers or supports beyond what happens in the classroom."
Deeper parent and family engagement (Focused on our African American/ Black families)	"Having affinity spaces help us have the types of conversations we need to have in order to process historical trauma and form clear ideas of how the system can support us in moving forward. "
Mental Health	"I Would like to see more counselors - access more than what is currently there. "I have lost a family member", I bet there are more students who will need the support because they have lost someone. " "I think schools should provide services for kids wondering if they have ADHD/depression/add etc"
Culturally responsive approaches to instruction and school culture – first best instruction	"I think campus culture needs to be improved. Academic pressures like AP courses need to change. People need to feel comfortable coming back." "We should continue discussing race and other hard topics in an educated and calm way."

Localized Engagement

Site Leadership Teams best know the students who are struggling the most and the specific areas of need and support they have. We feel directing these resources locally better positions us all to serve students most effectively.
